FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Pemberton Greenish Expands Commercial Property Department

Thursday 4 November 2010, Chelsea, London – Pemberton Greenish is expanding its commercial property department with the appointment of Henry Bowman, a construction partner, on 15th November.

Henry was a construction consultant to law firms Spring Law and Spearing Waite. Prior to that he was a partner at Denton Wilde Sapte.

He specialises in advising developers, contractors, professional consultants and banks on construction contracts, funding and related disputes.

Head of Commercial Property Ian Gill says "Henry is joining us to strengthen further our growing team. He is an excellent lawyer and will be a valuable contributor of construction expertise. The appointment is a new specialist practice area for us. It reflects Pemberton Greenish's commitment to commercial property, which we are intending to expand with further appointments".

Damian Greenish, Senior Partner, says "As a strong player in the commercial property market we are very pleased to have a construction expert joining us. We believe that now is the right time to expand our commercial practice".
