Pemberton Greenish appoints new residential property partner

Pemberton Greenish has appointed Elaine Slee, previously Head of Residential Property at Lawrence Graham, as a new partner in its expanding residential property practice.

Elaine has over twenty years experience in advising on all aspects of residential property transactions, including enfranchisement.

Damian Greenish, Senior Partner at Pemberton Greenish, said: "Elaine brings with her a wealth of experience in advising on complex property problems. Her appointment follows the continued growth of our residential property practice through recent appointments to the panel of advisors for both the Crown and Portman Estates. She is a valuable addition to the firm and her recruitment is a clear demonstration of our commitment to building a market leading residential practice in the UK."
